

Wood's taking part in Macmillan's World's Biggest Coffee Morning for sixth year

The Newton Abbot office of Wood's, team estate agents and auctioneers, is taking part in the World's Biggest Coffee Morning 2010 to help raise vital funds for Macmillan Cancer Support.

The staff at the well established and highly respected office will throw open its doors with an invitation to residents of the town as well as clients old and new, friends and family, colleagues and associates to join them for home-made cakes and coffee from 10am on Friday 24th September.

The 2010 Coffee Morning will be the sixth annual event held by the agency on behalf of Macmillan. In 2004, Wood's held its first Coffee Morning and raised £405. In 2005, a considerable donation of £844 marked the beginning of a concentrated fundraising effort by Wood's colleagues, Sarah Thomas and Joyce Sharpe, and since then, through Coffee Mornings, Charity Balls and other activities, the formidable, now award-winning partnership has raised over £30,000 for Macmillan alone.

Guests will be in with a chance of winning raffle prizes and delighting in wonderful home-made cakes. As usual, every penny raised by the agency and its guests at the coffee morning will go to Macmillan in Devon, which provides invaluable support to local people affected by Cancer and their families.

Sarah Thomas at Wood's, said: "We love taking part in Macmillan's World's Biggest Coffee Morning – it's a great way to meet those who live in and around the town and to catch up with loyal, current and future clients as well as friends and family, colleagues and local business people. It really is enjoyable and highly worthwhile as Macmillan is such a good cause. We're looking forward to seeing plenty of guests drop in for coffee and cakes on the 24th – everyone is welcome."
