

Press release – 18th June 2012

Good old fashioned sing song at Jubilee Tea Party

Food, drinks and a good old fashioned sing song were enjoyed by a number of retired Saltash residents on 1st June at a Tea Party in celebration of the Queen's Jubilee.

Hennings Moir, the longest established independent estate agency in the town and organisers of the Tea Party, were absolutely thrilled with the amount of people who attended the event, including some of the residents from St Anne's nursing home.

Delicious scones supplied by Jennifer's Delicatessen were served with lovely English strawberries, jam and clotted cream donated by Cornish Farm Produce alongside a selection of sandwiches, beautiful cakes, crisps and sausage rolls, and of course a traditional British cuppa.

Everyone was honoured and surprised when The Town Crier and his wife, who were dressed in full costume, arrived and the room looked great with bunting, tableware and flags in a Union Jack design.

Alison Palmer, office manager at Hennings Moir, said: "The Tea Party was absolutely brilliant. Everyone enjoyed the delicious food and the visit from The Town Crier and his wife was a real treat. The sing song was fantastic, everyone getting involved singing some of the old classics including The White Cliffs of Dover and We'll Meet Again. We felt a real sense of community spirit and celebration. Thank you to all of the local businesses which made donations and to Waitrose for their complementary voucher."

The event took place in the Maurice Huggins Room in Victoria Gardens at the top of Fore Street and all retired residents in the town were invited.

To contact Hennings Moir, call 01752 850440 or pop into the office at 136c Fore Street in Saltash.

- ends -

In the images: Clare Smith, Alison Palmer and Karen English from Hennings Moir before the event; The Tea Party in progress; The Town Crier and his wife joining in the celebrations

Images are available from bubblepr@mac.com

For further information: Samantha Boshier, Bubble PR, 01869 248524, bubblepr@mac.com