

team estate agents celebrate new app - and the best online coverage for homes

Westcountry team and 96 team offices across the South West are delighted with the launch of the network's own mobile web site and property search app.

The teamprop app for the iPhone® and iPad® is now available for download on the App Store<sup>SM</sup> and for Android devices at <https://market.android.com/?hl=en> by simply searching for 'teamprop'. Completely free of charge, the teamprop app provides users of the smart devices with direct, real-time access to the thousands of properties listed on teamprop, whenever they want to, wherever they are.

The app features full screen imagery and rich media content with a quick and easy search facility and the ability to refine any search by distance, property age, price and number of bedrooms. Users keeping a close eye on the market can select to show properties added in the last 24 hours, three days, seven days or 14 days as well as choose whether or not to include homes under offer and sold.

The search results can be sorted by price ascending or descending and once a property is selected, a complete description is displayed along with full screen photographs, the Energy Performance Certificate and floor plan, and the location can be pinpointed on a map. The app offers the facility to call or email the agent there and then as well as to forward property details onto a friend.

Steve Moir, chairman of Westcountry team, said: "In terms of both content and quality, we're confident that our apps are in a league of their own. Not only do they offer access to more properties in more places, but thanks to the unique technology that automatically updates each teamprop listing every few minutes, users can enjoy browsing the industry's most accurate property web site anytime, anywhere, confident in the knowledge that all details are as up to date as possible, and that – unlike others – they are getting access to properties almost as soon as they are listed. House hunting has never been so easy!"

All properties listed with team estate agents now feature on mouseprice.com, the leading source of UK property market information online, as well as most of the major property portals, and every one of the hundreds of independent team agency web sites is linked - giving properties for sale with team estate agents greater internet coverage than those with any other agency. The association's own web site, www.teamprop.co.uk has clocked up a staggering average of nearly a million visitors per month since its launch in 2000.

For further information, to find your nearest team estate agent or to search properties for sale, download 'teamprop' at the App Store or from the Android Market, or visit www.teamprop.co.uk.
