

Brand new town centre office for Stevens' Estate Agents

Stevens', team estate agency in Okehampton, is delighted to have moved to bigger, better offices.

The well established agency, having spent 34 years at its previous East Street address, has moved to a bigger, more prominent office at 15 Charter Place on Market Street in the centre of the town.

In a very busy shopping area within Red Lion Yard, Stevens' new Charter Place office is close to three large supermarkets and nearby parking, making access to the agency easy and creating a strong presence for the properties in its brand new window displays, which are now highly visible to all locals and visitors to the town.

The move has gone smoothly; the brand new signage has been unveiled and the agency is busier than ever before. James Stevens, manager of the office who works closely with his father, John in the family business, which also has an office in North Tawton, said: "We're thrilled with the move. The new office is bigger, brighter and much more prominent than the old one; it's amazing what a difference the location has made – we were busy before but our presence in the centre of town has bought with it a whole new energy, with a heightened level of interest from past and present as well as potential clients and it's had a knock-on effect with the team here too, we're all buzzing with a fresh enthusiasm and thriving on being busier than we've ever been."

Stevens' has built an excellent reputation in the town since 1977, based on quality of service, friendliness and professionalism. The Okehampton branch works closely with its North Tawton office as well as 57 other independent agencies across the Westcountry and hundreds nationwide as part of the team network, which directly connects Stevens' with buyers in London and the Home Counties as well as those throughout the rest of the country, and guarantees unrivalled in-branch and online exposure for clients' properties.
